FUND MANAGER COMMENTARY

The local equity market ended the month up. The broad market index, the FTSE/JSE All Share Index gained 0.2%, whilst the benchmark of the fund, the FTSE/JSE Capped Swix All Share Index gained 0.7%. The index tracking funds in the portfolio, the Satrix Alsi Index and the Satrix Capped Swix All Share Index performed inline with the two respective benchmarks. Together, the index tracking funds account for 26% of the portfolio.

The three actively managed mandates constitute 65% of the portfolio. The ClucasGray and the Perpetua segregated mandates both had pleasing performance, returning 2.1% and 1.9% respectively, beating the benchmark and peers. The Bateleur segregated mandate lagged the benchmark, returning 0.5%. The SIM Small Cap fund, a specialist mandate focussing on smaller market capitalisation companies, delivered 1.8%.

MARKET COMMENTARY

The protracted US-China trade war had a seesaw effect, on both local and global markets, during September. Early in the month, equity markets and emerging economy currencies rallied on the expectation of a trade deal, when it was announced that a delegation of low-level officials from both countries will meet to discuss details around a possible deal. However, news that Democrats were launching an impeachment probe into President Trump unravelled the expectations of a deal. Consequently, equity markets reversed most of the gains made earlier in the month, but still managed to outperform bonds and cash.

The Federal Reserve's Open Market Committee decided to cut interest rates by 0.25% in response to a slowdown in global growth and the effect of the trade war. Fed Chair Jerome Powell promised to act appropriately should further economic developments require it. Elsewhere, the Bank of England, Bank of Japan and the European Central Bank kept rates unchanged at record lows (and negative in some cases).

Locally, Governor Kganyago announced that the Monetary Policy Committee decided that the repo rate will remain unchanged. The Committee judged that either a material slowdown in growth or an increase in inflation could cause interest to be cut or hiked respectively.
