FUND MANAGER COMMENTARY

There is no avoiding the fact that the first half of the year has been tough. There have been limited places to hide, with almost all asset classes in the red year-to-date (YTD). Unusually high levels of inflation, slowing economic growth, rising interest rates, Fed policy uncertainty, China's Covid restrictions and Russia's war on Ukraine are all headwinds that have helped drive the markets lower.

Globally, equities have suffered one of the worst starts to a year in over fifty years. Over 2Q22 the S&P 500 Index declined by 16.1% bringing the YTD number to an eye-watering -20.0%. The Nasdaq 100 Index has fared even worse and is currently down 29.2% for the YTD. European stocks have not been immune, with the EURO STOXX 50 Index declining by -18.0% (YTD). The UK-focused FTSE 100 Index, with its exposure to value stocks in the banking, energy, and health sectors, has been a clear outperformer YTD, declining by only 1.0% (but still in the red). Thus, from a style perspective value has been the place to be, outperforming growth stocks by 16.6% YTD (based on the MSCI World Value and Growth USD Indices).

Locally, South African equities did not fare much better over the quarter with the FTSE/JSE All Share Index ending down 11.7% bringing the YTD return to -8.3%. This performance was impacted by double digit declines in both the Resources and Financial indices, which ended down 21.9% and 15.6%, respectively for 2Q22.

From an economic perspective, inflation in South Africa came in at 6.5% in May – the highest level since January 2017 and above the upper limit of the SARB's 3 - 6% target range. Based on the latest inflation print, many expect that the SARB will likely hike rates by 50bps in July.

As with many of our global counterparties, the dilemma remains the ability for central banks to tame inflation without pushing economies into recessions. Unfortunately, only time will tell if their decisions were correct but in the meantime volatility amongst asset classes is likely to continue.
